CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

After more than two weeks of debate and parliamentary struggle the Administration finally forced through the Senate last week, by a four vote margin, the Monetary Control Bill continuing the President's power to devalue the dollar, purchase gold and silver, and continue foreign exchange operation through use of the stabilization fund. The presidential powers under the old law expired at midnight on June 30th as the result of a filibuster conducted in the Senate. The final approval of the bill came five days later, with the result that a legal question now exists as to whether the final passage of the bill actually continues the old law, or that the expiration thereof will require that new legislation be passed later. Senators from the silver states cleverly took advantage of the desperate fight between the President and his foes to force through an increase in the price of domestic mined silver, making its new value 71.77 cents per ounce as compared to the old price of 64.64 cents per ounce.

While the Senate still has neutrality legislation and a number of other important matters to consider before the work of the session is concluded, the House of Representatives has finished most of the important legislative work before it. As a result many members took advantage of the Fourth of July recess to return to their home district for a short visit with their families and a hurried check-up of political fences. Final adjournment of Congress depends entirely upon the action of the Senate in regard to neutrality legislation. Thirty-four Senators have already signed a pledge to each other to fight to the last ditch any Administration attempt to change the present neutrality law which now prohibits sale of arms and munitions to any governments engaged in war. Therefore, it seems certain that should the battle over neutrality get under way in the Senate the session will indeed be a prolonged one, undoubtedly lasting many weeks.

In order for Congress to adjourn, concurrent action must be taken by both the House and Senate. Otherwise neither body can adjourn for more than three legislative days at a time. With the Senate embattled over neutrality, the House could either meet in skeleton session once each three days or continue its active legislative work by taking up new controversial issues. Opinion is about evenly divided in the House as to which method of procedure should be followed. More than six months of session, the heavy expenses incident to life in Washington, and the unbearable heat and humidity of the Capital city, cause many Congressmen to insist that legislative work end as quickly as possible. Other Members of the House feel that amendments to the Labor Relations Act and the Wages and Hours law should be given immediate consideration, and that work should be continued on transportation legislation and other important matters.

Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson died on Friday at his summer home in Virginia. State funeral services were held for the Secretary in the Senate Chamber on Monday afternoon with the President, the Cabinet, Supreme Court, Congress, the Diplomatic Corp, and high naval and military officials in attendance. Secretary Swanson served in the Senate for twenty-one years from the state of Virginia, leaving that body when appointed Secretary of the Navy by President Roosevelt in 1933. For the past several years the Secretary has not been in good health and has only been able to give a portion of his time to his official duties. Death also called another Republican of Wisconsin, who was serving his first term. His passing came suddenly as a result of a heart attack.

Greene Co. Road Work Is Authorized

County commissioners have authorized the rebuilding and hard-surfacing of two Bath township roads at a total cost of $5,100, of which the township trustees have agreed to pay $1,200. Estimates submitted by County Engineer H. W. Walsh placed at $2,910 the cost of improving 1.05 miles of the Funderburg rd., including 8,000 gallons of tar, and at $2,100 the cost of creating .5 of a mile of the Fairfield-Zimmerman rd., involving 4,000 gallons of tar.

RELIEF BONDS TO BE ISSUED BY COUNTY

The county commissioners have authorized the issuance of $42,000 worth of anticipatory notes for matching relief funds for Xenia and the rest of the county, the state to provide special funds when the county can meet requirements.

Xenia will maintain a separate relief administrative unit, independent from that of the county, but to avoid duplication of preliminary legislation, city officials agreed to permit the county board to proceed with procurement of the entire sum of money.

By this procedure the city does not waive any rights to an estimated $18,000 which will be allocated later to the city relief unit, representing about 45 per cent of the total note issuance.

Prosecutor Marcus Shoup said the notes would be issued in $500 denominations, a total of 84 to be retired by 1943 through payments into special state tax funds.

Trustees of the county's interest and sinking fund, to whom the notes will be offered first, are expected to purchase all or a large majority of the $42,000 issue, thus saving a substantial amount in interest payments.

50 WPA Workers Dismissed Monday

WPA workers in Greene County have not "walked out" on their jobs in protest against extension of hours under the new federal relief act, the increase in the work-month from 107 hours to 130 hours for unskilled labor has reportedly caused some discontent because of the mileage expense involved in making three extra trips to and from the scene of projects.

A reduction of 50 in the number of WPA workers in the county became effective Monday, in keeping with the nation-wide reduction of 200,000 by July 11. The cut from the existing county quota of 423 is expected to be heaviest on the county-wide WPA highway improvement project to which 247 workers are now assigned.

A former trustee of Beaver Creek township and former member of the board of elections, the new commissioner was named to serve the remaining 18 months of a four-year term ending Dec. 31, 1940.

'Pipe's Out; Good Night' Says Supreme Court

The Ohio Supreme Court decision that had on the surface tickets for ousted Democrats to return to the state payroll turned out to be nothing more than a dream. Even though the court ordered reinstatement now, a new law goes into effect in September that will move every provisional Democratic employee and those that have straw civil service classification.

Chick Pheasants Destroyed In Storm

Bad news comes from the Urbana game farm for the nirrods of Ohio. This time the manager reports that approximately 3,000 chick pheasants and 46 hen pheasants were destroyed in another heavy rainstorm which swept over the far nearly last Sunday morning. Only a few weeks ago he reported that 1,300 chick pheasants, which were about ready to be liberated met the same fate.

Last Sunday's storm it is claimed, was the worst since the farm was established and the chicks drowned before they could be rescued, so traffic was the downpour.

This is the heaviest loss the farm has sustained and it means there will be few birds for distribution in different parts of the state the coming autumn.

CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST—NO ONE AT HOME

Reports have it that more than 100,000 WPA workers in the U. S., have gone on a strike and are determined to fight the government, the head of CIO and AFL labor organizations backing the strike. This strike is called by the so-called skilled labor class, not the pick and shovel men as most of the labor is called in this county. The question now is whether federal law shall be determined supreme or whether one of Roosevelt's peaceful revolutions shall prevail.

It will be recalled that several hundred Boston policemen once upon a time determined to tell the city just what they would not do. The city law enforcers went on strike and defied both the city and state. There was at the head of the state government a man of quiet disposition that was not known to the country and to much of his state and he was none other than Calvin Coolidge. When the police refused to follow orders of the state to preserve peace and order as other citizens were expected to do, this silent gentleman with a backbone of steel and a makeup of moral courage found his orders trampled in the Boston streets he at once placed the city under military control.

The police just like the radical unionists hungered for a fight and they got it, with shot and shell from guns that barked a different kind of a bark that sounded from the policemen's pistol. The power of the state was supreme when the police were routed in that contest.

WPA fondeled by New Dealers as a part of a political program to control votes has given impression to labor leaders that this organization is above the law, not realizing that WPA is charity in a way, the unemployed being given work at government expense. It is take such work or remain idle.

The new law called for increase in working hours and this law was passed by a New Deal controlled congress. Striking now is like "biting the hand that feeds you." But these WPA workers should not bear all the blunt of just criticism levied against the relief organization. Labor leaders must do the unusual to make a showing. The New Deal has at times encouraged all kinds of strikes and given the union followers the impression that the government will back them in all claims. The worm has turned for striking now is attacking the New Deal.

While the so-called skilled WPA workers, mostly city union members, have drawn higher pay than WPA workers in rural counties, what about the list of WPA white-collar jobs the New Deal politicians have created to direct the WPA activities. The Columbus Citizen gives a list of 788 Democratic politicians in Ohio that have "boss" jobs for WPA that draw salaries ranging from $1,200 to $8,000 each. There has been no strike called in the ranks of this class of New Deal workers so far as we can learn.

To the average WPA worker in this county such news as what the Columbus Citizen published should open his eyes to the fact that he is merely the recipient of a bone here and there while laboring in all kinds of weather to earn the measly $10.50 a week to keep body and soul together. The 788 Democratic politicians are feeding first out of the WPA funds, skilled city union labor comes next, and the poor devil without influence must take his $10.50 a week and like it. That is what the New Deal has been doing for the lower ranks of the unemployed.

The action of labor leaders in leading the strike will do two things, first, educate the public that one group cannot attack the government any more than a foreign power; second, public sentiment will gradually back away from WPA grants and frown on further projects. This may be a burden to helpless unemployed that wants to work and has only taken the government offer as a makeshift for support until he can find a place at decent wages in private industry.

The nation is only reaping what has been sown from the White House by an irresponsible leader who plays the role of the hero to the unfortunate, yet feeds and clothes the guardians, the 788 high salaried politicians, as though there has not been or is today any evidence of what we term a depression. Even the White House has made no personal sacrifice or attempted to get down any ways near the level of those Roosevelt would have believe he had befriended. His interest is not that but to keep the unemployed in servitude for political purposes.

No statement has come from the Roosevelt New Dealers as to the recent strike. The King is as meek as during the days of the motor car sitdown strikes in Detroit, the longshoremen on the West coast and the coal miners.

The chickens have come home to roost, so to speak and the attack by WPA strikers is a challenge against law and order—and thus far there is no one at home in the White House—no one with a backbone of steel or sufficient moral courage to uphold his oath of office.

Paul V. McNutt, Indiana Democrat, who has been a wheel-horse in the New Deal, and counts himself presidential timber, was mentioned this week in Columbus dispatches as a candidate not interested in the Ohio State University presidency to fill the vacancy of former President Rightmire. Edith M. Campbell, president of the OSU board comes out with a statement that McNutt was not a candidate, that his name was not mentioned at the Monday meeting and that no offer was made him. She says the whole story is false and nothing but propaganda put out by Ohio Democrats boosting the McNutt candidacy for president.

The Garner Democrats are busy down in Texas and the state committee announces that there will be no office holders permitted as delegates to the Democratic State Convention. Reports have it that Roosevelt has so many New Deal Democrats on the payroll in Texas they outnumber the jack rabbits on the plains. Roosevelt was trying to capture the Texas state convention for an endorsement for a third term when all office holders were barred as delegates to the convention. Jim Farley might try this rule when he lines up the New York delegation.

There is every indication at this writing that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not reach an agreement to report out the FDR neutrality act which pledges this country to aid England and France in their war making with Hitler and Mussolini. So far the New Dealers cannot get enough votes to report the measure out. They cannot get enough votes on the floor to remove the bill from the committee. The Senate is not ready to sell the nation down the river because Roosevelt and Hull made a secret treaty with foreign nations that they cannot make good now. The hollow plea of the Democratic nations banding together against dictator nations is all bosh. Poland is no democracy but a dictator state and who can deny it?

The biggest stir in weeks happened last week when the Supreme Court in an unusual decision, according to attorneys, reinstated two provisional Davey appointees, both having appealed from the Civil Service Commission decision. Democrats on the outside at once saw their return to the state pay roll. In this county not a single case ever was taken before the commission so the decision did not apply here. In fact it only applied to the two who appealed. Attorney General Herbert, along with the Civil Service Commission has asked for a rehearing on the two cases.

The Democrats failed to take into consideration that the court decision, if it stood as dendered, would reach back to the early days of the Davey administration and every Republican removed by Davey would be entitled to back pay and his job. This automatically would eliminate the Democratic appointees that followed according to attorneys, so the court decision would not mean much to anyone but the Republicans after all.

But the court decision would hit the pocketbook of every taxpayer in the state. For instance if the highway department had to pay back salary for four years under the Davey administration to a Republican that had been ousted, and having paid the salary of the one on the job, it stands to reason that the state would go broke over night. Every department of state would have double salaries. By this time Mr. Taxpayer would be getting his ax out for the court and most anyone could predict what the next decision would be. Here and there a lawyer looking for practice and a few dollars, has made ousted employees believe they had a case in court but of course the lawyer protected his interest by an advance payment.

The last legislature left a "hot potato" in the lap of the various boards of county commissioners in the state when the new relief bill placed responsibility there but also tied a string from the commissioners to the Welfare Department under Director Sherwood in Columbus. Reports in Columbus indicate over the state the county commissioners do not welcome the change due to the fact that relief is a problem that will never be settled. The more relief this year the more next year and you cannot satisfy the fellow that eats free and the fellow that puts the cash in the county till as taxes. It is said the township trustees, as strong as their organization is, knew a "hot potato" when they saw it. Most of the counties are broke and it will be necessary for the commissioners to find the relief money in the way of bonds.

So far as we hear there was not a striker among the 450 or more WPA workers in this county. The strike situation is due to highly paid labor leaders in congested centers that must keep up an issue to draw the percentage of union member wages each week. It has been a good thing for the nation. More people are interested to-day than before and more people are publicly speaking their views. It is not even a "whisper campaign" against the New Deal. Its strong language we hear every day irrespective of politics.

FDR says there will be no European war until after harvest abroad. That's another good reason the public did not get until this week. After harvest when the crops are laid in there will be more time for fighting according to the No. 1 war forecaster in Washington. Has anyone else a good reason?

In reading of Indian names some time ago we ran across this interesting bit of news concerning the origin of our states:

Alabama, named after the Indian tribe Alibamons, meaning "I clear the thicket"; Arizona, from Arizonas, a word meaning "place of small springs" in the language of the Papagos, a peaceful southwestern tribe of Indians; Arkansas, named after the Indian tribe, the Arkansas, the meaning of which has been lost; Idaho, which comes from the Indian words "Edah Hoe," meaning "Sunrise Mountains" or "Light on the Mountains"; Illinois, named after the Illini Indian tribe, meaning "River of Men"; Indiana, named after the Indians; Iowa from the Indian "Ah-hee-o-o-ha," meaning "drowsy ones"; Kansas, named after the Kanza Indians, a Sioux name meaning "The People of the South Wind"; Kentucky, from the Indian "Kentuke," meaning "River of Blood"; Massachusetts, from the Indian Massachusset, mean "Great-Hill-Small Place"; Michigan, from the Indian "Mishawigumna," meaning "Big Lake"; Minnesota, from the Sioux Indian words meaning "sky-tinted water"; Mississippi, of Algonquin origin, meaning "gathering of the waters"; Missouri, from the Indian meaning "muddy waters"; Nebraska, a Sioux Indian name meaning "broad river" or "shallow river"; North and South Dakota, Dakota being a Sioux Indian word, also written "Lakota" and "Nakota," meaning "allies," being used as a common name of all the confederated Sioux tribes; Ohio, from the Iroquois name, "Ohionhio," meaning "beautiful river"; Oklahoma, from the Choctaw Indian word meaning "red people"; Oregon, from the Indian word "Wau-regon," meaning "beautiful river"; Tennessee, named after the Cherokee village, Tannase, the meaning of which has been lost; Texas, Indian word which means "allies" or "friends"; Utah, named after the Utes, a Shoshone tribe; Wisconsin, thought to have come from "Ouisconsin," meaning "wild, rushing channel."

As predicted in this column some time ago, the European situation is fast developing another crisis which seems far more serious than any of those that have gone before. Most of the Washington observers of the international scene privately express the opinion that another European war seems inevitable and that the only thing that can prevent such a conflict is a complete back-down or change of front by the Central European powers. Poland, they say, is determined and ready to fight to defend their outlet to the sea and their economic freedom, if the necessity arises, and England and France have definitely decided to support by force of arms any action that may be taken by Poland. The final answer as to peace or war is scheduled to come some time between July 15th and August 15th.

Lambs should never be allowed to lose their baby fat if they are to be marketed the same season they are dropped. A good supply of water and salt is essential in keeping them constantly gaining in weight.

The Milk Business Is a Home Industry

85.8c WITHIN STATE 14.2c OUTSIDE STATE

How the milk dollar works at home is shown by a Borden compilation for 1938. The figures covering 17 midwest branches show that out of every dollar received from sales of fluid milk a total of $58.10 cents was returned to farmers and wage earners in the state, and was paid for local taxes and to home businessmen for supplies and advertising. Only 14.2% cents of every dollar received was spent outside the state—for federal taxes, for supplies and services not available locally, and for stockholders. Few commodities return as much out of every dollar to the local communities as do dairy products.

REHOBAM: A MAN WHO MADE A FOOLISH CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 12:1-5, 12:17, 20. GOLDEN TEXT—A man's pride shall bring him low.—Proverbs 29:23.

"He did evil because he prepared not his heart to seek the Lord"—this is the divine epitome of the life of Rehoboam as given in II Chronicles 12:14.

Life is full of choices, and the decisions we make determine our destiny both in this life and in the life to come. Since the great issues of our life may hinge on the simplest of choices, it is obvious that we need guidance at every point and in every moment of life. The counsel of men, the right impulses which are born of good breeding, the light of knowledge—all these may help us to make right choices. But since there is only One who has all the knowledge, and can see the end from the beginning, who has all the power to make His decisions effective, it is obviously folly of the highest degree to do without His holy guidance, especially since God is willing to give it without money and without price even to the humblest believer.

Men and women, let us not follow the foolishness of Rehoboam. Let us seek first God's kingdom and His righteousness, and then we are assured that everything else shall be added unto us (Matt. 6:33).

The picture before us is astonishingly up-to-date. People were crying for relief from tax burdens. One group of leaders counseled moderation; another group, said in effect, tax them all you can and keep on spending. The king, who in a monarchy has the final decision, in his power, replied to the plea of the people with the 900 B. C. equivalent of our modern slang expression, "Oh, yeah!" and the ten tribes promptly revolted.

I. A Reasonable Request (vv. 1-5). Governments exist for the people, not the people for the government. Political leaders seem to forget this axiom and begin to rule as though they need not listen to the reasonable pleas of the people. Tax burdens rise, regimentation of the life of the nation takes place, and sooner or later the people rise to overthrow the government. It happened in Rome; it was back of the French Revolution; it brought an uprising of the serfs of Russia; it can and will happen elsewhere if men who rule do not listen to reason.

Rehoboam made at least one wise decision—to wait three days before speaking and to seek counsel. He needed this, for having been brought up in the palace of Solomon, without proper training for his place as king, he was quite unable to make immediate answer to their request. Incidentally, we note that much of the folly of Rehoboam is chargeable to the neglect of his father to rear him properly. May that terrible thing never be said about you and me regarding our children.

II. An Unreasonable Refusal (vv. 12-15).

The picture of the two groups of advisers is a most graphic one and should afford the teacher an excellent opportunity to show young people especially how important it is to heed the counsel of their elders. Even so youth stands today at the fork of the road. Let us in all kindness, love, and tact seek to help them choose the right way.

III. The Inevitable Revolt (vv. 16, 17, 20). The people, long submissive and apparently servile, ultimately come to the point where they think, and when they do, dictatorial rulers tumble from their self-made thrones. Would that the people of the earth realized the power which they have and that they would use it for the glory of God. Rehoboam felt the power of the people who revolted, others have followed him, for it is still true in the world that the rulers "do evil" because "they prepare not their hearts to seek the Lord."

Rehoboam, who had awaited the arrival of this crucial hour in anticipation of taking his place as the king of the ten tribes, was ready, and was at once chosen as the leader of those who withdrew from the rule of the house of David. Rehoboam's sin brought this about, but it was also in the counsels of God (v. 15). As Alexander Maclaren expresses it, "... the historian draws back the curtain. On earth stand the insolent king and mutinous people, each driving at their ends, and neither free of sin and selfishness. A stormy sea of people, without thought of God, rages below, and above sits the Lord, working His great purpose by men's sin. That divine control does not in the least affect the freedom or the responsibility of the actors. Rehoboam's disregard of the people's terms was 'a thing brought about of the Lord,' but it was Rehoboam's sin none the less."

Soybeans are not good soil builders. Their roots contain only one-third as much humus-making material as the same acreage of red clover roots. Wheat following soybeans should be liberally fertilized because the organic matter in soybean roots becomes available slowly and is of little or no benefit to the crop immediately following.
